

PRIVATE VOCATIONAL & TRADE SCHOOLS

The following Ventura County institutions are recognized by the State of California's Department of Consumer Affairs, Bureau for Private Postsecondary & Vocational Education (BPPVE), as an alternative to traditional community and four-year colleges. Private postsecondary institutions can offer both formal degree programs and vocational certificates for students looking for training in a particular field. Many vocational programs are designed to teach students the specific skills they need to succeed, and many degree schools cater to working adults. If you have questions about attending a private postsecondary institution, the BPPVE can be reached at 916/574-7720. All phone numbers below are in the 805 area code, unless otherwise noted.
